

We need to keep NJ's Do Not Call Act in effect. Telemarketers should not be allowed to solicit via phone. I do not know one person that has stayed on the phone with a telemarketer (besides taking survey). Therefore, it should not be a huge issue on whether or not they are allowed to call residents at home; if anything, it's beneficial for the telemarketer because they will not be getting screamed at, hung up on, etc. Furthermore, the whole world is so commercialized, that we need to shut it off while at home. When we see it on television, we can turn the channel. But, in our homes, it's not as easy to turn off your ringer. Keep telemarketers off our phone lines!
